

Flying WILD: Educator Workshop

Wednesday March 8, 2017

University of Nebraska Lincoln- Hardin Hall (33rd & Holdrege)

Lincoln, Nebraska

6:00-9:00pm

Birds are everywhere...school grounds, local parks, even your backyard! Why not use birds to engage students in learning all subjects? With the Flying WILD Curriculum Guide, this is easier than ever!

Workshop participants will receive:

- Knowledge about Nebraska birds and skills to engage students in bird watching
- The Flying WILD Curriculum Guide
- Additional bird related resources

Through over 40 activities, the Flying WILD Curriculum Guide helps all educators introduce students to the world of birds & birding, why birds are amazing creatures, and why birds matter in our culture and environment.

To register please email Monica.macoubrie@nebraska.gov with your first & last name, phone number, and affiliation.

Workshop is limited to 20 participants...register today!
